Hornbooks are one-volume treatises written primarily for law students on subjects typically covered by law school courses.
Unlike casebooks, which are collections of cases (or excerpts of cases) chosen to help illustrate and stimulate discussion about legal issues, hornbooks attempt to summarize and explain the law in a specific area.

According to Cornell Law's library website, modern hornbooks provide "presentations of 'black letter law'... They condense an area of law into a single volume and give a clear overview of the law's evolution, a discussion of courts' interpretation of the law and an explanation of the application of the law today."
